

Component ablation identifies the dominant acceleration target

Runtime after disabling each accelerated component, normalized to the full fast path.

